

Every case needs a strong team. Bring yours together in MessengerOne.

MCS MessengerOne brings secure group messaging right to your RelativityOne workspace – giving you a single platform for casework and teamwork.

- Instant Notifications
- Public and private messaging
- Threads Organized
- Search by text or topic
- File Sharing
- Archived conversations

Think outside the inbox.

Give yourself a much-needed email break. With MessengerOne, you can chat with colleagues, post on the news feed, create group forums, and securely share files – all without ever leaving your RelativityOne workspace.

Go private or public.

Share project updates privately, to group members, or to all followers, then track comments within the message thread.

Collaborate in real-time.

MessengerOne connects you to people throughout your organization, so you can get answers to questions and collaborate as you go – no matter the department or location. Need an answer by a certain deadline? Just request a response by date and time.

Keep your team organized.

Avoid endless threads and missing files by keeping everything in the same virtual workspace, available anytime, anywhere.

Easily share files.

No more uploading or downloading large files to your email. Just share them on MessengerOne. Recipients can view them right there in Relativity, and you can say goodbye to version mania.

Give remote teams some love.

With a virtual water cooler, all your employees will feel connected and in sync – no matter where they live and work.

Follow conversations – everywhere.

MessengerOne follows your case wherever it goes – even into the archives. When you archive your case, your messages will go with it so you can reference them later if needed.

Spark innovation.

Post interesting articles, videos, websites, or other content relevant to your industry to keep everyone up to date on news and trends that can impact their work and make a difference to your bottom line.
